CLEVERTRONICS : YOUR PARTNERS IN COMPLIANCE

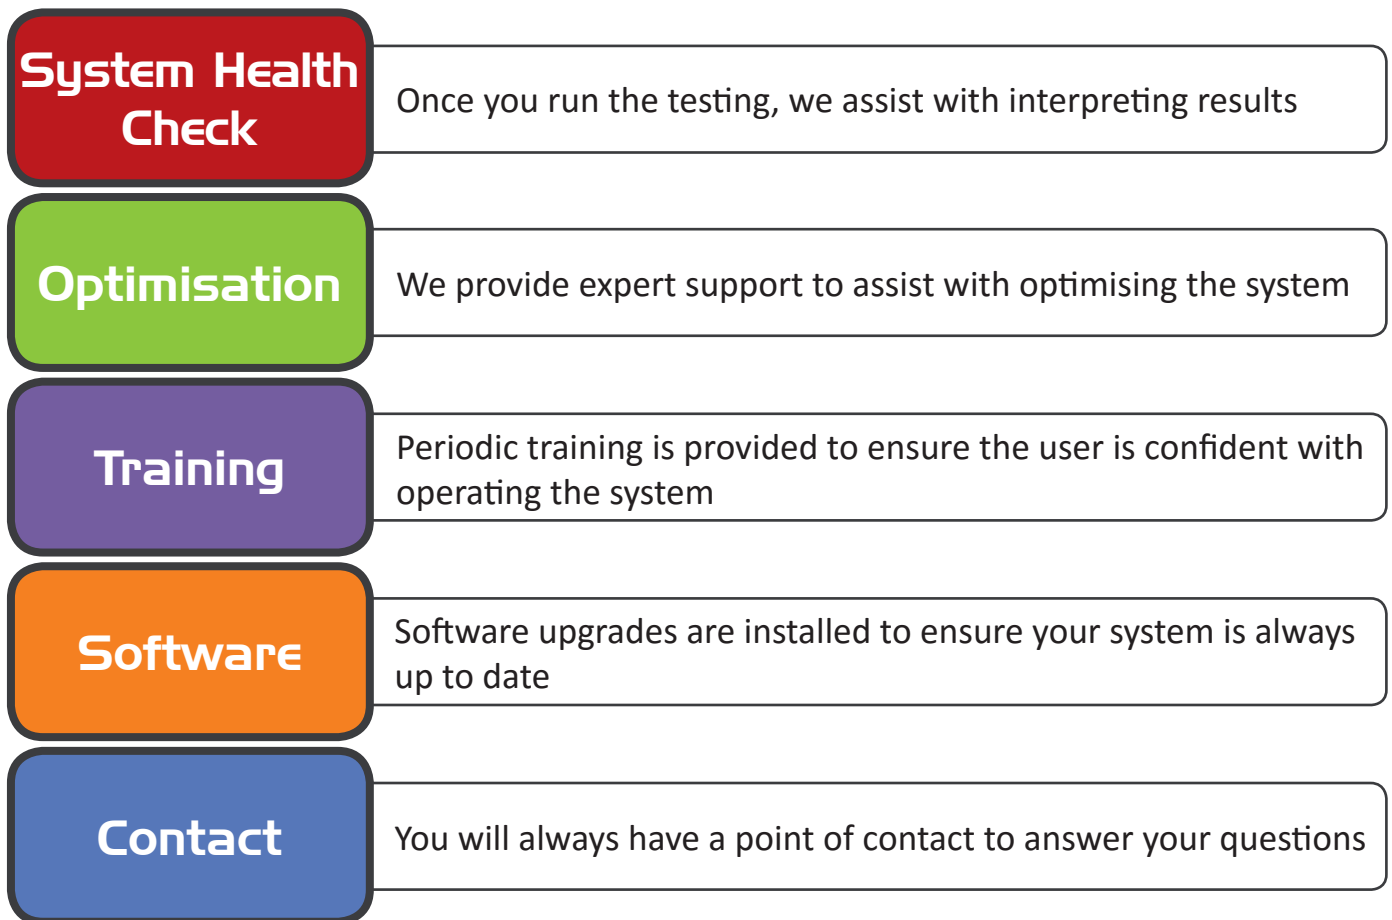

Emergency lighting is regarded as a life saving device and therefore it is essential that it is always in working order. Exit and emergency lighting must be tested, inspected and maintained according to the relevant procedures outlined in AS/NZS2293 Part2 1995 (including 1998, 2008 and 2012 amendments).

Compliance with the standard can be a costly exercise especially if the products and operating systems selected regularly fail.

Many Emergency Lighting companies finish their involvement on your project once the product has been supplied. However, at Clevertronics we know that on-going support is important to contractors and building owners.

Clevertronics offers lifetime support through our Advantage Lifetime Support (ALS) program. This is a free service designed to help the building owner & maintenance contractor manage on-going Emergency lighting costs.
